CASE 73 - 3335

August 9, 1973

PATHOLOGICAL DIAGNOSES ON THE BODY

OF

Charles Cobble
304 West 27th Street, #30
Houston, Texas

1. Gunshot wounds (2) of head.
2. Postmortem decomposition.

OPINION

It is our opinion that the decedent, Charles Cobble, came to his death as a result of gunshot wounds (2) of head, homicide.

It is our further opinion that the death interval is consistent with approximately 2 weeks.

POSTMORTEM EXAMINATION ON THE BODY OF

Charles Cobble
304 West 27th Street, #30
Houston, Texas

HISTORY: This body was one of seventeen bodies or skeletal remains recovered from Stall #11 at 4500 Silverbell Street, Houston, Texas, between 6:00 p.m. on August 8, 1973, and 8:00 p.m. on August 9, 1973. (See Companion Cases 73-3332, 73-3333, 73-3334, 73-3335, 73-3336, 73-3337, 73-3338, 73-3339, 73-3347, 73-3348, 73-3349, 73-3350, 73-3353, 73-3354, 73-3355, 73-3356, and 73-3357).

AUTOPSY: The autopsy was performed by Chief Medical Examiner Joseph A. Jachimczyk, M.D., assisted by Dr. Paul G. Stimson, beginning at 11:00 a.m. on August 9, 1973, in the Harris County Morgue.

EXTERNAL APPEARANCE: The body was that of a decomposing, teen-aged white male, measuring 69 inches in length and weighing 82 pounds. It was covered by a plastic drop cloth and tied around the neck area with heavy hemp cord and also tied around the waist and ankles with heavy hemp cord. Beneath the outer wrapping, there was a plastic covering around the neck, tied on the left side. There was advancing postmortem decomposition similar to that seen in ML Case 73-3334. The scalp slipped with ease and was covered with dark brown hair, measuring up to 4 inches in length. There were two similar gunshot entrance wounds in the right temporoparietal scalp. One was located at a point $\frac{3}{4}$ inch just above the superior tip of the right external ear. The lumen measured 0.22 inches in diameter. The other was located at a point $1\frac{3}{4}$ inches above the superior tip of the right external ear and $\frac{1}{2}$ inch posterior. This lumen also measured 0.22 inches in diameter. There were no wounds of exit. The eyes were sunken and collapsed, and appeared dark brown. The ears and nose were intact. The teeth were in a good state of repair. The neck was long and thin. The thorax was symmetrical. There were subcutaneous postmortem blebs with skin slippage. The abdomen was slightly protuberant but soft. There were no abdominal scars. The external genitalia were those of the mature circumcised male. Both testes were palpable within the scrotum. The upper extremities were intact. There was skin slippage of the fingers. The fingernails were short. The lower extremities were intact.

There was pronounced postmortem skin slippage of the soles. The back was intact. There was postmortem mould formation along some of the skin surfaces. The body surfaces and the body orifices emitted an unpleasant aroma.

Postmortem body X-rays revealed two small caliber bullets in the cranial cavity. There were no other abnormalities on X-ray.

INTERNAL EXAMINATION: Section: The usual Y-shaped incision was made. The skin was soft, green-brown, the subcutaneous tissue orange-yellow, measuring 1/2 inch in thickness at the level of the umbilicus. The pectoral muscles were red-brown. Both lungs were collapsed. The thoracic and the abdominal viscera were decomposing. The appendix was short and stringy, and attached to the tip of the cecum.

HEART: The heart weighed 100 grams. Except for the postmortem deterioration, there were no cardiovascular abnormalities.

LUNGS: The lungs together weighed 260 grams. On section, the cut surfaces were dark brown-purple. The bronchi contained dark amorphous mucus.

LIVER: The liver weighed 400 grams. On section, the cut surfaces revealed a soft, trabeculated, honeycombed appearance. The gall-bladder was intact and empty and collapsed.

Pancreas and Adrenals: The pancreas and adrenals were autolyzed.

SPLEEN: The spleen weighed 70 grams. Except for the postmortem autolysis, there were no abnormalities.

GENITOURINARY TRACT: The kidneys together weighed 120 grams. Except for the postmortem autolysis, there were no abnormalities. The urinary bladder was empty. The tubules of both testes strung with relative ease.

GASTROINTESTINAL TRACT: The stomach was empty. Except for postmortem decomposition, there were no abnormalities. The appendix was short and stringy, and attached to the tip of the cecum.

BONES: There were no bony abnormalities except in association with the bullet tracts.

HEAD: The scalp was reflected in the usual coronal fashion. There were two gunshot entrance wounds in the right side of the skull at the previously described sites. The calvarium was otherwise intact. The coronal and sagittal suture lines on both the outside and inside of the calvarium were very sharply delineated. There were two bullets recovered in the mushy brain tissue. One was more markedly distorted than the other. Each was a .22 caliber bullet. Each was initialed and placed in a special container for safekeeping. There were two bullet tracts traversing the mushy brain from right to left and slightly from head toward toe. There were no other cranial abnormalities.

NECK: Except for the postmortem deterioration, the neck organs were intact. The hyoid bone was intact.

DENTAL EXAMINATION: The charting was the universal system as follows: UR (upper right) #1 through #16; LL (lower left) #17 through #32, tooth number 9, which was the upper left central had had an endodontic procedure on the cingulum area. The upper left first molar (tooth 14) had an occlusal amalgam with a distal lingual pit extension. The lower left first molar (tooth number 19) had an occlusal amalgam and a buccal pit amalgam. The lower right first molar (tooth number 30) had an occlusal amalgam, and an amalgam in the buccal pit and a distal buccal amalgam.

Caries was present as follows; a distal pit in the upper right second molar, (tooth number 2); the distal pit in the upper right first molar, (number 3). The upper right lateral was a peg lateral (tooth number 7). There was a fractured incisal edge on the upper right central (tooth number 8). There was a hairline fracture through the incisal edge from the gingival area through the length of the crown on tooth number 9, which was the upper left central. Tooth number 10, the upper left lateral, had been extracted. There were mesial and distal caries in the upper left second molar (tooth number 15). The lower left and right third molars were in crypts and impacted. There was an occlusal caries on the lower right second molar (tooth number 31). The jaw relationships were in cross-bite on the left side in both the molars and the premolars. Comparison of the caries and fillings with the University of Texas Dental Branch charts, the last entry in which was February 29, 1972, revealed that there were similar type fractures in tooth numbers 8 and 9. Tooth 11 had been extracted. The caries pattern was similar in tooth 15. The fillings were similar in tooth 30 and tooth 19. An endodontic procedure had been done in tooth 9 with decompression of a cyst. This accounted for the bony defect noted over tooth 9. The dental identification was established conclusively on August 9, 1973, as that of Charles Cobble, from the dental records of the University of Texas Dental Branch.

ADDENDUM: At approximately 8:45 a.m. on December 4, 1973, I was contacted by Dr. Richard Madden, Chairman of the Endodontics Department of the University of Texas at Houston Dental Branch, requesting that I show him the records from Charles Cobble, the University of Texas registration number E07062, which had been given to me previously for identification purposes. Together, we came to the Harris County Morgue, where he reviewed the records in the presence of Joseph A. Jachimczyk, M.D. I then took out the upper and lower anatomic specimens, our number 73-3335, Unknown #4, and showed them to Dr. Madden. We then took the upper and lower anatomic specimens over to the Dental Branch and radiographed them. Dr. Madden then looked at the periapical radiographs of the anterior area and said positively that there was no question in his mind that these specimens were those of Charles Cobble. The antemortem radiograph was then placed in the University of Texas dental chart with the antemortem radiographs.

Charles Cobble

MEMORANDUM

At 9:00 a.m. on October 10, 1973, Mr. and Mrs. Verne T. Cobble (Betty), 4000 Hollister Street, Houston, Texas, 77055, telephone 460-3407, came to the Harris County Morgue and examined the clothing, which was found in the boat shed at 4500 Silverbell on or about August 8, 1973.

Each identified the shirt with a seagull insignia, the black and brown shoes, size 9, the braided belt, the brown belt, which was looped within the brown corduroy trousers, the bluejeans, and the Fruit of the Loom jockey shorts as the property of their late son, Charles.

They also identified the brown two-tone shoes, size 9, which were almost new, and the Globe brand jockey shorts as the property of Marty Jones. They also stated that even though both trousers and both belts belonged to Charles, Marty would often wear Charles' clothes.

Thus, Mr. and Mrs. Verne T. Cobble made positive identification of the preceding items of apparel. Their visit terminated at 10:00 a.m. on October 10, 1973.
